Albuquerque, NM. October 26, 2007 – Rinchem Company, Inc. announced today that it has made a strategic acquisition of G & A Warehouses, located in the Philadelphia area. This acquisition strengthens Rinchem's diverse services in the chemical, pharmaceutical, and biotechnology logistics industries. On October 1st of 2007, Rinchem purchased the three warehouses and began operating as Rinchem Company, Inc. in the name of G&A Warehouses, Inc.

The three convenient warehouses, located in Bensalem and Fort Washington, Pennsylvania, offer quick access to metropolitan New York, and the Eastern seaboard region. Of the three warehouses, one is dedicated to pharmaceuticals and is cGMP regulated; another is equipped for chemical and electronic materials; and the third is a general warehouse that is regulated to store food grade materials. Rinchem will install the G & A Warehouses with its Chem-Star® inventory management system. This will add it to Rinchem's international network of facilities linked together to provide customers with 24/7, real-time inventory visibility of materials via the web.

Manny Avino, previous owner of G&A Warehouses, and now Rinchem's Director of Operations for the East coast operations stated, "G&A Warehouses and Rinchem were serving some of the same customers, so combining our companies made things easier for those key customers, and added additional services for all customers. This acquisition also opens the door to more collaborated logistics business in the pharmaceutical and biotechnology industries."

For more information about this acquisition or Rinchem's Northeastern U.S. facilities, please contact Michael "Ging" Gingerella by telephone at 480-710-8631 or by email at ging@rinchem.com
